

INTERNET 100x FASTER

Celebrating Mississippi's first Gigabit city

It's official. Construction on C Spire's next-generation fiber to the home initiative offering Internet 100x faster began in Bridgewater this week - making Ridgeland one of the first cities in Mississippi that will receive ultra-high speed 1 Gigabit per second consumer broadband service. In the coming days, you'll be seeing C Spire Fiber crews in your neighborhood installing fiber optic cable that will power a whole new world of communications and entertainment choices for consumers.

C Spire has scheduled a news conference in Bridgewater on Thursday to tell the world about this exciting development for Ridgeland and the Magnolia state.

Mississippi Gov. Phil Bryant, Fiber to the Home Council Americas President Heather Burnett Gold, the mayors of Horn Lake, Quitman, Ridgeland and Starkville and a host of other government, business and community leaders and dignitaries will be joining C Spire CEO Hu Meena to celebrate this historic moment in your neighborhood.

If you have time and your schedule permits, please join us for this special occasion. We're looking forward to bringing the technology of tomorrow to Ridgeland and other Mississippi cities and towns today. Your community will be one of only a handful across the U.S. with this game-changing infrastructure that promises to improve Internet speeds, boost home values, attract high-tech investment, create new jobs and improve the quality of life in your community.
